HOW TO CURE CONSUMPTION.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF DR. SCHENCK'S GREAT MEDICINES.—Will people never learn to know that a diseased liver and stomach necessarily disease the entire system? The plainest principles of common sense teach this and yet there are hundreds who ridicule the idea, and continue in the course which almost inevitably brings them prematurely to the grave. Living as the majority of the people do at complete variance with the laws of nature, it must be apparent to all that, sooner or later, nature will revenge herself. Hence we find that persons who indulge to excess in the use of very rich or indigestible food or intoxicating drinks; invariably pay a heavy penalty in the end. The stomach becomes disordered and refuses to act: the liver fails to perform its functions, dyspepsia and its attendant evils follow, and still the suffering individuals persist in clinging to the thoroughly exploded idea of the past, Dr. SCHENK'S medicines are recommended to all such. They bring sure and certain relief wherever they are used as directed, and all that is necessary to establish their reputation with every ailing man or woman in the lands is a fair and impartial trial of them. Let those who are skeptical on this point, and who have punished interested persons to prejudice them against these now celebrated remedies for consumption, discard their prejudices, and be governed by the principles of reason and common sense. If the system is disordered depend upon it, in nine cases out of ten the seat of the disorder will be found in the stomach and liver. To cleanse and invigorate the stomach and to stimulate the liver to healthy action, use

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS.—The daily increasing demand for these pills in the best evidence of their value. Thousands upon thousands of boxes are sold daily. Why? Simply because they act promptly and efficiently. Invalids who may not find it convenient to call on Dr. SCHENCK in person are informed that full and complete directions for use accompany each package of the MANDRAKE PILLS, PULMONIC SYRUP AND SEAWEED TONIC.—These medicines will cure consumption cases, the lungs are so far gone that the patient is entire, ly beyond the reach of medical relief.

It may be asked by those who are not familiar with the virtues of these great remedies, "How do Dr. Schenck's medicines effect their wonderful cures of consumption?" The answer is a simple one. They begin their work of restoration by bringing the stomach, liver and bowels into a healthy condition. It is food that cures this formidable disease. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS act on the liver and stomach, promoting healthy secretion, and removing the bile and slime which have resulted from the inactive or torpid condition of these organs, and of the system generally. The sluggish state of the body, and the consequent accumulation of the unhealthy substances named prevent the proper digestion of food, and, as a natural consequence creates disease, which results in prostration and finally in death.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP and SEAWEED TONIC, when taken regularly, mingle with the food, and the digestive organs, make good and rich blood, and as a natural consequence, give flesh and strength to the patient. Let the faculty say what it may, this is the only true cure for consumption. Experience has proved beyond the shadow of a doubt, and thousands are to-day alive and well who a few years since were regarded as hopeless cases, but who were induced to try Dr. SCHENCK'S remedies, and were restored to permanent health by their use.

One of the first steps the physician should take with a consumptive patient is to invigorate the system. Now how is this to be done? Certainly not by giving medicines that exhaust and emaciate—medicines that impair instead of improve the functions of the digestive organs. Dr. SCHENCK'S medicines cleanse the stomach and bowels of all substances which are calculated to irritate or weaken them. They create an appetite—promote healthful digestion—make good blood, and, as a consequence, they invigorate and strengthen the entire system and more especially those parts which are diseased. If this cannot be done, then the case must be regarded as a hopeless one.

If the physician finds it impossible to make a patient feel hungry, if the deceased person cannot partake of good nourishing food and properly digest it, it is impossible that he can gain in flesh and strength; and it is equally impossible to bring a patient to this condition so long as the liver is burdened with diseased bile, and the stomach laden with unhealthy slime.

Almost the first request made to the physician by a consumptive patient is that he will prescribe medicines that will allay the cough, night sweats and chills, which are the sure attend. nts on consumption. But this should not be done, as the cough is only an effort of nature to relieve itself, and the night sweats and chills are caused by the diseased lungs. The remedies ordinarily prescribed do more harm than good. They impair the functions of the stomach, impede healthy digestion, and aggravate rather than cure the disease.

There is one all, nothing like it, on the continent. Nearly all who have taken his medicines, in accordance with his directions have not only been cured of consumption, but, from the fact that these medicines act with wonderful power upon the digestive organs, patients thus cured speedily gain flesh. Cleansing the system of all impurities, they lay the foundation for a solid, substantial structure. Restoring these organs to health, they create an appetite. The food is properly assimilated the quantity of blood is not only increased, but is made rich and strong and in the face of such a condition of the system all disease must be banished.

Full directions accompany each of the medicines, so that it is not absolutely necessary that patients should see Dr. SCHENCK personally, unless they desire to have their lungs examined. For this purpose he is at his office, No. 15 North sixth St., corner of Commerce, Phila., every saturday, from 9 A. M. until 1 P. M.

Advice is given without charge, but for a thorough examination with the spirometer the charge is $5.

Our Duty and Destiny as a Nation.

BY H. C. D.

THIRD PAPER

INTEMPERANCE.

And now, my good fellow citizens, you will indulge me in a brief personification of this cruel enemy. O Intemperance! thou cruelest of monsters, pause for a moment and number the countless millions of your slaughtered subjects. No class of men has escaped your ravages; you have dragged your victims from our legislative halls and from our senate chambers; you have entered our temples of justice and sent our judges reeling in the streets; you have, with Satannic impudence entered the sanctuary of God, and ruthlessly dragged your subjects from the sacred desk. Thou hast turned earth into such a charnel house that if visited by an unfallen inhabitant of another world, ignorant of the moral history of our planet, he might be ready to conclude that ours was not the creature of his benevolent God; but rather the creature of some malevolent demon, flung into space, to wander there, a mockery amidst the benevolent works of God. Arithmetic would fail to number thy slaughtered subjects; if it were possible to collect all the blood thou hast shed into a sea, that crimson flood would be more than sufficient to float all the navies upon earth. "O full of all subtlety and all mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all right-eousness, will thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?"—Wilt thou never close thy ghastly and insatiate jaws, and say, it is enough? Foul fiend, thou shalt come to an end; there is One greater than thee and thy father, and with His aid we will drive thee from thy earthly throne and from thy empire, to glut thy hellish appetite forever with thy ruined subjects in merited darkness.

Thus we have glanced at the magnitude and horrible dimensions of this monster with whom we have to deal. We have alluded to the countless millions of its victims, scattered along the track of time. Noah planted the first postdiluvian vineyard and got drunk, over four thousand years ago, down to the present time.

BEAT THE ALARM.

And now, fellow-citizens, it is high time to beat the alarm and call the whole community to arms. Let no one be excused on account of the insignificance of their influence. God never created a being isolated, or out of relation with every other creature in the natural and moral world. When in a clear and moonless night you look up into the concave of heaven, and look and wonder at the magnitude of the vast volume of creation, your wonder is increased when science informs you that every star in the grand panorama is an unmeasured world, and ecstacy of delight must be the result when informed that these glorious and countless suns and worlds are held in such inviolable relation, each to every other, by the laws of attraction, gravitation, and other occult forces, that perfect harmony has prevailed amongst them all ever since they came from Jehovah's plastic hand.

And if in the material universe God cares for and governs all, from a grain of sand up to the grandest orb floating in fathomless space, dare we conclude that he would be less particular in His moral government, since the material universe in all its magnitude and all its grandeur is subordinate to and only the scaffolding to the building of God's moral kingdom—the former to be taken down when the latter is consummated in endless glory.

OUR INFLUENCE.

In this view, every member of the human family, from the throne to the poorest cottage, and from the first man down till time shall be no more, bear an indissoluble relation each to every other, and also a ceaseless influence which lays us under responsibilities which we can never lay aside. Our responsibility is co-extensive with all our powers, and our obligation to duty is implied in all your privileges. Let no man conclude that he has no influence, and therefore is under no moral obligation. It would be easy to show that the movement of a child here might produce mighty movements in Paris, St. Petersburg or China. The bite of a fly has resulted in bringing a man out of the kingdom of darkness into the kingdom of light, where he shed abroad such a flood of light in the last century as to continue with ever-increasing good till our present day. For illustration, a single case out of many which might be adduced, will suffice. There you might see the poor inebriate with glass in hand; by strong drink his faculties of soul have gone out of harmony with each other, conscience is lulled to sleep, reason forbids the dangerous draught, insatiable appetite craves the deadly poison; the poor wretch stands in awful equilibrium. You step forward, take your drink to his health; his appetite thus encouraged by your drink and your smiles of approbation, triumphs over reason—he drinks the balance—is lost forever—the struggle is over. He goes forth a confirmed drunkard; he contaminates others, and they others, each forming a centre, and each centre sending out ceaseless waves of influence, until, could you but read the unwritten history of results, you might learn the awful doom of thousands, resulting from your single smile of approbation over your single glass, which turned the scale against your deluded friend. But, alas, what is the record of time when compared with that of eternity!

You are but in this world but a little while, and rest assured it will be either better or worse because you have been here a short time, for you cannot perform an act the divergent waves of the influence of which can ever cease, down through all time and eternity. This may appear to be severe casuistry, but depend upon it, it is God's unchangable mode of governing in his moral universe. Then let us see to it, that we employ all the weapons which God has put into our armory, such as the ballot, by which he has distinguished us above all nations, the pulpit, the press, our social and religious circles, our colloquial intercourse, and especially in ardent invocations to God for help, for he is mightier by far than all that can be against us.

The prize for which we contend is nothing less than the existence of the greatest nation upon earth; your defeat the most disastrous, your success the most glorious. Your battlefield is the world, and if there is any truth in analogical reasoning, your success in throwing off the moral excrescences now fastening upon our body politic. You may rest assured that another century will not pass over us till our nation will number over four hundred millions, and that there are children now born who will live to see our nation number over three hundred millions of souls; and you may confidently anticipate the perpetuation of our loved institutions down to the latest generation of the earth. Your success will guarantee to the United States the government of the whole world, not by fire and sword, but by the divergent waves of your influence, gradually reaching the hearts of the millions, ever throbbing for that liberty which is the birthright of every soul. By such influence it will be your destiny to melt the chains of tyrants, and sap the thrones of all the despots upon earth. Take courage then; remember your cause is the cause of poor, oppressed and trodden down humanity, and never forget, that your cause being good, you fight under the great captain of our salvation, that he has done so much for our country, and that he is and ever will be our unconquerable prince and ceaseless friend, and strictness of obedience to his command Another motive to action might be presented for your encouragement, and that is, your safety.

It is over fifty-six years since your correspondent declared open war against this insidious foe, and that upon principles of entire abstinence, and he never ceased. He stood alone in the conflict for fifteen years; he has contested every inch of the ground, both from the forum and through the press; he has fought till his weapons are nearly all broken or worn out; he has outlived a generation; his equals in years and companions in early life, are all gone; of that loved little band, who first clustered round him as a society, all are gone; not one of them is left to cheer and congratulate him now when the evening shades are gathering round his pathway. But others have risen up to rejoice over our former success in driving the cruel monster from our loved and native valley, where in the distance of eighteen miles we dried up about twelve distilleries and twelve licensed taverns, where when he left it it would have been difficult to purchase a pint for medicinal purposes. And though he never refused for a moment to defend the good cause, he has lived to rejoice over much of the fruit of our labor, and as you see, he still lives unscathed by all the friends of Bacchus Though his best thoughts and clearest ideas have been expended long since in the temperance cause, and though he may fail to keep up with the progress of the age, or render himself entertaining to those who are now in active life, and whose opportunity for intellectual and moral improvement so far transcend his that he should come before you with great diffidence; but you see none are so humble as to be free from responsibility, none so low as to be free from obligation; hence he has deemed it his duty once more to raise the alarm, once more, and probably for the last time, to call the attention of his friends and fellow-citizens to the dangers now tereatening our loved institutions, and earnestly call upon them to come up to the rescue of this the greatest and most highly privileged country upon earth. He now greatly desires to commit this great contest into stronger and better hands, greatly desiring that your wisdom, energy and success, may justify his long cherished hope, that it was the purpose of high Heaven to regenerate the world by the instrumentality of the Anglo-American people But in order to justify such high anticipations, great courage and ceaseless efforts must be made. It shall be his last earnest prayer to God that He will so overrule in his providence and by his grace that these our loved institutions shall be handed down pure and unadulterated to the latest generations.

HOW MARK TWAIN COLLECTED HIS BILL.

This ends the history of it up to the time that I succeeded to the property. I will now endeavor to set myself straight before the nation in everything that concerns my share in the matter. I took this beef contract, and the bill for mileage and transportation to the President of the United States. He said:

"Well, sir, what can I do for you?" I said:

"Sire: On or about the 10th day of October, 1861, John Wilson Mackenzie, of Rotterdam, Chemung county, New Jersey, deceased, contracted with the General Government to furnish to General Sherman the sum total of thirty barrels of beef—"

He stopped me there and dismissed me from his presence—kindly, but firmly. The next day I called to see the Secretary of State. He said:

"Well, sir?"

I said: "Your Royal Highness:—On or about the tenth day of October, 1861, John Wilson Mackenzie, of Rotterdam, Chemung county, New Jersey, contracted with the General Government to furnish to General Sherman the sum total of thirty barrels of beef"

"That will do, sir—that will do; this office has nothing to do with contracts for beef."

I was bowed out. I thought the matter all over, finally, the following day, I visited the Secretary of the Navy, who said: "Speak quickly, sir; do not keep me waiting." I said:

"Your Royal Highness: On or about the 10th day of October, 1861, John Wilson Mackenzie, of Rotterdam, Chemung county, New Jersey, deceased, contracted with the General Government to furnish to General Sherman the sum total of thirty barrels of beef"

Well, it was as far as I could get.—He had nothing to do with beef contracts or General Sherman either. I began to think it was a curious kind of a government It looked somewhat as if they wanted to get out of paying for that beef. The following day I went to the Secretary of the Interior. I said:

"Your Imperial Highness: On or about the 10th day of October—"

"That is sufficient, sir—I have heard of you before. Go—take your infamous beef contract out of this establishment nothing whatever to do with subsistence for the army."

I went away. But I was exasperated now. I said I would haunt them; I would infest every department of this iniquitous Government until that contract business was settled; I would collect that bill, or fail as fell my predecessors, trying. I assailed the Postmaster General; I besieged the Agricultural Department; I waylaid the Speaker of the House of Representatives. They had nothing to do with contracts for beef. I moved upon the Commissioner of the Patent Office. I said:

"Your august Excellency: On or about—"

"Perdition! have you got here with your incendiary contract, at last? We have nothing to do with beef contracts for the army, my dear sir."

"Oh, that is all very well—but somebody has got to pay for that beef. It has got to be paid now, too, or I'll confiscate this old Patent Office and everything in it—"

"But, my dear sir—"

"It don't make any difference, sir. The Patent Office is liable for that beef, I reckon; and liable or not liable the Patent Office has got to pay for it."

Never mind details. It ended in a fight. The Patent Office won. But I found out something to my advantage. I was told that the Treasury Department was the proper place for me to go to. I went there. I waited for two hours and a-half, and then was admitted to the First Lord of the Treasury. I said:

"Most noble, grave, and reverend Signor; On or about the 10th day of October, 1861, John Wilson Macken-"

"That is sufficient, sir. I have heard of you. Go to the first Auditor of the Treasury."

I did so. He sent me to the second Auditor. The second Auditor sent me to the third, and third sent me to the First Comptroller of the Corn beef Division. This began to look like business. He examined his books and all his loose papers, but found no minute of the beef contract. I went to the Second Comptroller of the Corn Beef Division. He examined his books and his loose papers, but with no success. I was encouraged. During that week I got as far as the Sixth Comptroller in that division; the next I got thro' the Claims Department; the 3d week I began and completed the Mislaid Contracts Department, and got a foothold in the Dead Reckoning Department. I finished in three days.—There was only one place left for it now. I laid siege to the Commissioner of Odds and Ends. To his clerk rather—he was not there himself. There were sixteen beautiful young ladies in the room writing in books, and there were seven well-favored young clerks showing them how. The young women smiled up over their shoulders, and the clerks smiled back at them, and all went merry as a marriage bell. Two or three clerks that were reading newspapers looked at me rather hard, but went on reading, and nobody said anything. However, I had been used to this kind of alacrity from Fourth Assistant Junior Clerks all through my eventful career, from the very day I entered the office Corn Beef Bureau clear till I passed out of the last one in the Dead Reckoning Division: I had got so accomplished by this time that I could stand on one foot from the moment I entered an office till a clerk spoke to me, without changing more than two or may be three times.

So I stood there till I had changed four different times. Then I said to one of the clerks who was reading:—

"Illustrious Vagrant, where is the Grand Turk?"

"What do you mean sir? Whom do you mean? If you mean the Chief of the Bureau, he is out."

"Will he visit the harem to-day?"

The young man glared upon me a while, and then went on reading his paper. But I knew the ways of these clerks. I knew I was safe if he got through before another New York mail arrived. He only had two more papers left. After a while he finished them, and then he yawned, and asked me what I wanted.

"Renowned and honored Imbecile. On or about—"

"You are the beef contract man.—Give me your papers."

He took them, and for a long time he ransacked his odds and ends. Finally he found the Northwest Passage as I regarded it—he found the long lost record of the beef contract—he found the rock upon which so many of my ancestors had split before they ever got to it. I was deeply moved. And yet I rejoiced—for I had survived. I said with emotion, "Give it me; the government will settle now."

He waved me back, and said there was something yet to be done first.

"Where is this John Wilson Mackenzie?" said he.

"Dead."

"When did he die?"

"He didn't die at all—he was killed.

"How?"

"Tomahawked."

"Who tomahawked him?"

"Why, an Indian, of course. You didn't suppose it was a superintendent of a Sunday School, did you?"

"No. An Indian, was it?"

"The same."

"Name of the Indian?"

"His name? I don't know his name."

"Must have his name. Who saw the tomahawking done?"

"I don't know."

"You were not present yourself, then?"

"Which you can see by my hair, I was absent."

"Then how do you know that Mackenzie is dead?"

"Time, and I have every reason to believe that he has been dead ever since. I know he has, in fact."

"We must have the proofs. Have you got the Indian?"

"Of course not."

"Well, you must get him. Have you got the tomahawk?"

"I never thought of such a thing."

"You must get the tomahawk. You must produce the Indian and the tomahawk. If Mackenzie's death can be proven by these, you can then go before the commissioner appointed to audit claims, with some show of getting your bill under headway that your children may possibly live to receive the money and enjoy it. But that man's death must be proven. However, I may as well tell you that the Government will never pay that transportation and those traveling expenses of the lamented Mackenzie. It may possibly pay for the barrel of beef that Sherman's soldiers captured if you can get a relief bill through Congress making an appropriation for that purpose; but it will not pay for the twenty-nine barrels the Indians ate."

"Then there is only $100 due me, and that isn't certain! After all Mackenzie's travels in Europe, Asia and America, with that beef; after all his trials and tribulations and transportation; after the slaughter of all those innocents that tried to collect that bill! Young man, why didn't the First Comptroller of the Corn Beef Division tell me this?"

"He didn't know anything about the genuineness of your claim."

"Why didn't the Second tell me? Why didn't the Third? Why didn't all these divisions and departments tell me?"

"None of them know. We do things by routine here. You have followed the routine and found out what you wanted to know. It is the best way. It is the only way. It is very regular, and very slow, but is very certain."

"Yes, certain death. It has been to most of our tribe. I begin to feel that I too am called. Young man, you love that bright creature yonder with the gentle blue eyes and the steel pens behind her ears—I see it in your soft glances that you wish to marry her—but you are poor. Here, hold out your hand—here is the beef contract; go take her and be happy! May Heaven bless you, my children!"

This is all that I know about the great beef contract, that has created so much talk in the community. The clerk to whom I bequeathed it, died. I know nothing further about the contract or any one connected with it. I only know that if a man lives long enough, he can trace a thing through the Circumlocution Office at Washington, and find out, after much labor and trouble and delay, that which he could have found out on the first day, if the business of the Circumlocution Office were as ingeniously systematized as it would be if it were a great private mercantile institution.

Japanese Girl's Toilet.

"Russell," who is traveling 'round the world for the Boston Traveler, is now in Japan. Here is something readable from one of his letters:

Having watched the man, we now turned to the "barberess." She had a lady customer, whose rich robes and ladylike demeanor indicated social position, and whose face and form showed considerable personal beauty. She was unmarried, for her teeth were glistening white. Neither of the ladies took any other notice of us than to glance at us once sideways. The customer, after leaving her clog sandals at the edge of the platform, which is the floor of the open Japanese houses, and advancing barefooted to the middle of the room, made a low bow to the "barberess" and told her how she wished to be dressed. The barberess placed a mat upon it; then removing the robe from her shoulders began the work upon her hair, first, until it was softened sufficiently to admit a comb. When the combing was done, all the hair was gathered back from the face to the crown and tied there. Then the "long tail" was waxed and oiled until it was stiff. It was next flattened out with the hands near the hair and the end gathered around this flat piece in curious curls and fantastic braids, the end fastened with a pin, the face and neck wiped dry with a towel. Then began a process for which I was wholly unprepared. I had not supposed the Japanese to be so near civilized. The barberess took up a little box with a fine bamboo sieve in the end, and, after telling the customer to shut her eyes, began to throw (or sift) the fine rice flour (or dust) upon the young lady's face and shoulders. Very soon the skin that was naturally copper-colored was artificially white. That portion of the flour which did not stick was brushed off with a feather brush, after which a piece of bark of some kind was rubbed on her cheeks until "red as a rose was she." Then for the first time a polished piece of iron or steel, serving for a mirror, was held up before the young lady, who smiled her approval, rose to her feet, gathered up her dress, and marched proudly off, leaving the barberess to await another customer.

Value of a File of Papers.

Times is quoted at three thousand pounds sterling, and probably would bring double that price if it were demanded. This is a small sum compared with American prices. A complete file of any important journal bears a value which is hardly to be computed in money. Hence the importance of keeping old papers.

Thirty three years ago the N. Y. Herald, started. Had anyone laid up a few copies of each issue, he would have had a rich reward. A complete file of that paper would cost with interest at compound rate $800. It would now readily bring $5,000. The sum of $2,300 was recently voted by the Common Council of the city for the purpose of purchasing a set which commenced with 1842, and which of course was deficient the first seven volumes. The librarian in the City Hall informed me that they were frequently consulted; and also said that they could be sold at a large advance. The only complete file of the Herald of which I have any knowledge are those in Bennett's own hands, and these are kept from the public eye. He does not wish to expose the early character of his paper. Another complete file was in the hands of the paper merchants, Pearse & Brooks, who supplied him with material, but this was lost when their warehouse burned several years ago.

There are statements in the early issue of the Herald which can throw light upon important questions now about to be brought into our courts. Lawyers have gone to the Herald establishment and solicited the privilege of a reference, but the reply is unchanged in character. One man foolishly spoke of legal compulsion, and was politely told to "try it." The only way for those who wish to possess such archives is to subscribe for the papers, and then to keep the file unbroken until time gives it a value.

☞ A letter from Brazil says you will see no potatoes, no corn, no fields of grain nor grass about Rio. The Globe.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Tuesday morning, June 28, 1870

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

The "Globe" has the largest number of readers of any other paper published in the county. Advertisers should remember this.

Republican County Convention.

A Convention of the Union Republicans of Huntingdon county, will be held at the Court House in the Borough of Huntingdon, on TUESDAY, AUGUST 9TH, 1870, at 1 o'clock, p. m. This Convention will be composed of two delegates from each township, borough, ward and district.

The Republican voters of the county are requested to meet at their respective places of holding elections (except those of the West ward of the borough of Huntingdon, who will hold their election at the new Engine House,) on Saturday, the 6th day of August—in the Townships, between the hours of 3 and 7 o'clock, p. m., and in the Boroughs between the hours of 6 and 9 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to this Convention.

Nominations will be made at the Convention for Congress, State Senate, Assembly, Associate Judge, County Commissioner, Director of the Poor, and County Auditor.

WM. LEWIS,
Chairman Republican County Committee.

—The editors of the Journal & American were furnished with a copy of the above call on Monday morning last, but they have refused to publish it.—The Republican County Committee that elected us Chairman, unanimously adopted a resolution, offered by one of the editors of the Journal & American, appointing a committee to receive propositions from Logan's committee to harmonize the party, but that committee failed to act, leaving us to be governed alone by our only duty, and that is to issue a call for the election of delegates and a County Convention. The party can dispose of both Committees at its Convention in August, and go on harmoniously for the success of the ticket to be nominated without the aid of the factious editors of the Journal & American.

Mr. Logan has not offered us a call—if he had, it would have appeared in to-day's Globe.

NO PAPER.—In accordance with the time-honored custom among the patriotic sons of Faust there will be no paper issued from this office next week. As this number closes the present volume we will receive subscriptions for the new volume at the usual rates—$2:00 a year, or $1.00 for six months.

WE have received the reply of "H C. B." to "R. J. A." It will appear in our next. We have no objections to giving both gentlemen the use of a column or two of the GLOBE for a few weeks.

WHITTEMORE, of South Carolina, who was expelled from the House recently and was re-elected by his constituents was refused a seat and his credentials returned, by a vote of 124 to 29, a majority of more than four to one.

THE BILL to abolish the Franking system was effectually killed in the Senate on Tuesday, by the close vote of 26 for to 28 against it. Senators Cameron and Scott both voted for the bill. It is not likely that it will come up again in any shape this session.

EVERY now and then, says the New York Herald, the administration writes in letters of gold an additional reason why it should continue in office. One of the last reads thus: Receipts from internal revenue during the year ending April 30, 1870, $180,260,954."

THE infant growls of a few friends of Mr. Morrell don't disturb us in the least. It is quite natural for them to want to hold on to the bone they have been picking. We have a larger purpose in view—the success of the party in the district at the next election, and the disappointment of the Democratic party.

AN independent Republican movement has been inaugurated in Pittsburgh, in which a large number of Republicans have participated. They allege they are not satisfied with the mode of making nominations, corruptions largely pervading the public service. They issue a call for a Convention on the 6th of July.

AN exciting scene disgraced the House last week between Farnsworth of Illinois, and Butler of Massachusetts. The former accused the latter of receiving a fee of $2000 in the Rollin White case, which was under debate, when Butler replied by calling him "an assassin and a coward," although he admitted to having received the money. Of such stuff are some of our representatives made.

RED CLOUD, Red Dog, and a host of other red skins have come to Washington, and are wending their way home again. They came to present their grievances to their Great Father (no other individual than President Grant) and they go away as Red Dog expressed it "fat with lies." We are afraid our government, through its agents, will treat the poor Indians shabbily, and we can expect nothing else than continual feuds between the tribes and the military until they are completely crippled or swept from our borders. Give them fair play.

SOME few individuals who last year were very prominent in an organization to disorganize the Republican party, now appear very anxious for "peace" and a full and united vote at the next election, but we have seen no evidence as yet that they intend to support the ticket to be nominated in August, if men of their choice should fail to be successful. The Republican party organization don't intend to tolerate men who may be for "peace" only until the nominating convention adjourns, then to play disorganizers again, (Cremer-like,) if they fail to control the action of the Convention. All who desire to be recognized as party Republicans must first show a willingness to stand by and support party nominations. Men who are not willing to yield to the will of the majority in Convention should not claim to be of the party—neither should they have a voice at a delegate election or in the County Convention. The disorganization of last year has passed away. Almost all the Republicans who were deceived by a few leaders have seen the mistake they made and cannot be deceived a second time. If the party is to exist for any good purpose, nominations must receive the support of the party organization—if they cannot receive such a support it is folly to labor to keep up a party organization or to hope for the success of nominated candidates. We hope every Republican in the county, willing to support the ticket that may be nominated in August, will take an interest in the delegate elections as well as in the Convention, and that the Republicans in every district will work in one solid column for the success of the party as well before as after the ticket is nominated. "Let us have peace"—but only with such as are willing to submit to the will of the majority.

THE Lewistown Gazette says:

"It appears to us the course pursued by the Huntingdon Globe does not look like a desire to conciliate the differences in that county. The Globe is exactly in company with the copperhead papers of the district, the Philadelphia Age, Harrisburg Patriot, New York Free Trader, &c., all of whom are extremely solicitous to make it appear that Mr. Morrell ought to be defeated in the nomination."

The Republicans in this county will not forget to notice that the Republican papers in this Congressional District favorable to the re-nomination of Mr. Morrell are not willing to give other papers and other Republicans the right to differ with them in the choice of a candidate. Because we are not in favor of the nomination of Mr. Morrell for the third term, the Lewistown Gazette, and one or two other papers in the district, similarly "situated," try to make it appear that we have no desire to conciliate the differences in this county. If there can be no conciliation outside the nomination of Mr. Morrell it might be as well for Mr. Morrell's friends to say so openly and early that the true men of the party could have the "situation" plainly before them before they elect delegates to a county nominating convention. We are opposed to the re-nomination of Mr. Morrell because we fear he cannot be elected next fall. He has been elected twice—but then is not now—and we believe every Republican who attempted a third election in this district was defeated,—and so we fear it will be with Mr. Morrell if he is forced into nomination against the wishes of the mass of the party. The Democrats in the District are not opposed to the nomination of Mr. Morrell—they want him nominated because they believe he will be the easiest man defeated. We don't want party nominations to drag in the next struggle—we want a fair start with the opposition and the lightest load possible. But, if Mr. Morrell should receive the nomination we pledge him our most earnest support for his election. We do not intend to wait until nominations are made to know how far we can support the ticket—we pledge it our support in advance—the opposite of the "situation" of the Republican and the Journal & American

"THE Globe has for some time past furnished a good deal of copy for Democratic papers in this Congressional and Senatorial districts."—Cremer's Republican.

Glad to hear that the Globe has for some time past furnished a good deal of copy for Democratic newspapers, and we hope they will continue to copy from the Globe—their readers will not lose anything. The Globe always was considered the best paper in the districts, and it would be better for Mr. Cremer to give a reprint of the Globe instead of a reprint of a small New York advertising sheet. We have no doubt the subscribers to the Republican would be well pleased with the change.

"THE GLOBE is the organ and its editor the chairman of the self-constituted Republican Committee of Huntingdon county."—Cremer's Republican.

That's good. The Globe is the organ of the only Committee that was true to party organization and party nominations. Thank you, Mr. Cremer.—How far it is a "self-constituted" committee the Republicans throughout the county know all about—a majority of the committee-men were appointed by the Convention that nominated the ticket repudiated by Cremer and his faction. The Republican is the organ of the few unrepentant disorganizers who are still trying to keep the party in trouble.

Jottings of Travel.

DEAR EDS.:—Did you ever notice that in this incongruous world of ours, where so much goes wrong, that, after all, things very frequently, for some reason, find their proper place. For instance: While walking through the streets of Pittsburgh the other day, I noticed on the end of a large building the following sign:

IRISH WHISKEY.

Glancing a little further along on the same building, my eyes caught the word

UNDERTAKER.

Now you see that is what I call things finding their right places—because a man who patronizes the first end of the building will, as a general rule, soon require the kind services of the gentleman whose sign is so conspicuous on the other end.

A MODEL TOWN.

Away up the Alleghany river, at a place called Red Bank, I left the train and enjoyed a buggy ride of twenty miles over delightful hills and through well cultivated farms, covered with abundant crops of wheat, rye, oats, &c., to the small but pleasantly located borough of Clarion, the county-seat of Clarion county. I have called it a model town, not because of its architectural attractions — although its Court-house is one of the neatest I have seen in the State—but because her people were sensible enough to understand that with the inspiring scenery and exhilerating breezes of these grand old hills and greasy valleys (you know they have struck "ile" out here) they do not need any internal stimulants. So with enlightened and elevated public sentiment they have what would be hard to find elsewhere—a county-seat without a single grog-shop of any description.

What a happy thing it would be for the old Keystone if her people generally could be educated up to a similar standard. Many people talk loudly about not caring what people say or think, but, after all, few men have the courage to oppose public sentiment, especially when their honest convictions must lead them to see that they themselves are wrong and their neighbors right.

AN OLD CORRESPONDENT.

"Life in Utah; or the Mysteries and Crimes of Mormonism; being an expose of their secret rites and ceremonies, with a full and authentic history of Polygamy and the Mormon sect, from its origin to the present time;" by J. H. Beadle, editor of the Salt Lake Reporter. Published by the National Publishing Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

The attention which Mr. BEADLE'S letters on Mormonism, written from Utah to the "Cincinnati Commercial," attracted throughout the country, justifies us in predicting that this new work from his pen will command a large and rapid sale. Of all the writers who have yet touched upon this theme, Mr. BEADLE is, perhaps, the best prepared for the task. His long residence among the Mormons, and his position as editor of the "Salt Lake Reporter," have given him a familiarity with the subject, which it is impossible for any mere transient visitor to acquire. We are therefore justified in placing more than usual confidence in his statements, which he supports, by an overwhelming array of testimony from both Mormon and Gentile sources.

It may be said with truth, that the curiosity of the public with regard to the state of affairs in Utah, was never so great as at present. Mr. BEADLE'S book will amply satisfy the most curious. He traces the history of Mormonism from the birth of its Prophet and founder, down to the present day, and shows how completely the Mormon leaders have duped their followers; how they are kept in a state of treasonable hostility to the Union; and how the Territory has been made a scene of constant strife and bloodshed. The work goes deep into the mysteries of this strange religion, and lays bare its horrible licentiousness. It abounds in records of the vilest and most terrible occurrences, which make it read more like a romance than a veritable history.

Coming before us as it does at a time when the General Government is making a determined effort to restore order and morality in Utah, we find it a most welcome and useful work. It is far more thrilling than the majority of sensational books with which the country is flooded, and is calculated to do much good by giving to the public a candid and impartial statement of a question which bids fair to cause no little trouble. The book is sold only by subscription, and agents are wanted in every county.

ABSCONDING WITNESSES. — Delinquent and absconding witnesses hereafter will have to be a little more careful in responding to the process of the courts, in important criminal trials. As will be seen by the following section of a law passed at the last session, they make themselves liable to indictment and heavy penalties:

Be it enacted, &c., That if any person who shall have been required by virtue of any writ of subpœna or other legal process to attend to testify in any prosecution for forgery, perjury or belony before any criminal court, judge, or justice, or other judicial tribunal in this Commonwealth, or who may have been recognized or bail to bail to attend as a witness on behalf of the Commonwealth or defendant, before any court having jurisdiction, to testify in any prosecution aforesaid, shall unlawfully and willfully from this Commonwealth or from the jurisdiction of such court, and with intent to defeat the ends of public justice, abscond, elope, or conceal himself, and refuse to appear as required by said subpœna or other legal process or recognizance of bail, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and being thereof convicted, shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars, or undergo an imprisonment not exceeding two years, or both, or either at the discretion of the court.

LATEST NEWS.—The Reading Car shops were destroyed by fire; loss $125,000.——Riots have occurred in Cork, Ireland.——Severe drought in Germany.——The Y M C A Convention at Indianapolis adjourned to meet in Washington next year.

THE British Government has carried into effect a radical reform in the system of appointments to office, similar to the change advocated in this country by Mr. Jenckes. Anybody who wants a Government place may present himself for examination upon his physical fitness, his moral and intellectual character, his general education, and his special knowledge of the duties he desires to fulfill. A candidate is chosen on a probation of six months, and if he is deemed fit he can retain the position permanently. Speaking of this reform, the N. Y. Tribune says:

We are not sanguine of the immediate adoption of any such reform in the United States — principally for the reason that we are so very much in want of it. The incompetency of Government officials is a comparatively trifling evil in this country, but the patronage system has become such a tremendous weapon of corruption that few politicians are willing to give it up, and few party leaders have the courage to pledge a hearty support to the movement for reforming it out of existence. While office is bartered and sold as it is now, and votes are given not for political principles but for a pretty customhouse clerkship, it is only by rare and fortunate accident that we can get the best men into position of trust and power, or secure a majority in Congress with the nerve and discrimination to apply the remedy to this threatening disorder of our political system.—Congressmen have come to look upon office-brokerage as one of the chief of their legitimate duties. Candidates have learned to buy their elections, not indeed by the petty bribery of individual voters, but by an explicit or implied promise of office to influential wire-pullers, stump-speakers, and local politicians—in other words, by buying extensive vote-dealers at wholesale. And it is an evidence of the injurious effect of this corrupt system upon the whole tone of public life that so many of our respectable statesmen do not see or will not acknowledge that the bribery of patronage, whether for personal aims or "the good of the party," is a dangerous assault upon the fundamental theory of the republic namely, that a free expression of the popular will should dictate the policy of the State.

PRIVATE advices received from Andrew G. On the 1st July he proposes to leave St. Petersburg for the Warm Springs of Germany, having received two months' leave of absence from the State Department at Washington, to enable him to accept the proffered courtesies at the hands of the Emperor in an invitation to accompany himself and Minister Gortschakoff, which high honor is a mark of the warm feeling entertained for the nation of which Minister Curtin is so able a representative.

Smith, census taker in Clinton county, Ohio, who has been hard at work since the 1st of June, and had succeeeded in getting quite a large amount of census statistics together, while arranging them, on a recent evening, became tired and left his room to procure a pitcher of water.—During his absence the papers on his table caught fire and were burned, and now the work must be all done over again.

Japan abounds in natural horrors.—The great volcano of Assmayama, in the interior of the island of Niphon, which has been quiet for centuries, is in violent eruption, accompanied by frequent earthquakes Villages are being swallowed up, and general terror prevails among the inhabitants.—About two hundred miles from Yokohama there is a marine volcano also at work. Some portions of the crater are above the sea Clouds of steam issue therefrom, and the water in the neighborhood is in a boiling condition.

A most extraordinary phenomena occurred in New York Monday evening. A thunder storm hung over the city upwards of two hours with lightning of the most vivid description.—About ten o'clock the pedestrians in the Bowery, near Grand street, were terribly shocked by a vivid flash of lightning, followed by an explosion of what proved to be a thunder-bolt in the air. The bolt, previous to its explosion, was about the size of a man's head and of a glaring red heat, and exploded about twenty feet from the earth. The fragments were scattered in every direction and burned brightly for several seconds. After reaching the ground one piece alighted on the top of a Third avenue car, putting the driver to flight and frightening the passengers not a little. Another piece fell on an awning, setting fire to and destroying it. This was the only damage done by the bolt. People in the vicinity were terribly frightened.

The Loudon Free Press tells a sad story of filial ingratitude. An old man past his four score years, was turned out of his home by his daughters, who were married and comfortably situated in life, and told to go and live among strangers. He was too proud to beg, and crawled into the woods.—Nothing was seen or heard of him for seventeen days, when he was found lying insensible in the forest. Around where the poor old man lay every twig and leaf was eaten, showing this to have been his only means of subsistence When informed of his situation, one of the sons-in-law refused to allow his team to be taken to convey him from the woods to the house, and also refused to send for a doctor. He was finally taken into the house of a kind hearted neighbor, where everything possible was done for his comfort, but he cannot survive.

There was a terrible nitro-glycerine explosion in Worcester, Mass., on Thursday, which demolished twelve houses, and badly shattered a number of others. The shock was felt all over the city, and bells were rung and a large amount of crockery and furniture broken at a distance of half a mile One man named Timothy Cronin, was killed, and thirty others were injured, none dangerously, however.—The nitro glycerine was intended for the Hoosac Tunnel, and had been smuggled into a freight car on the railroad. Three freight cars were demolished. The total loss is estimated at $150,000. The concussion was felt at points twenty miles distant.

The Milwaukee Sentinel tells a story of a South Side bachelor who in great excitement and speed, rushed to his washerwoman, and was just in time to arrest her hand as she was placing his pantaloons in the suds. ☞ A terrific storm, accompanied by hail, visited the southern portion of this county on Sunday last, and did considerable damage to the crops. At McConnellsburg, Fulton county, the Methodist church was moved from its foundation by the storm.

The West Branch Camp Meeting for 1870, will commence Tuesday, August 16, to continue 10 days. The grounds are located between Williamsport and Lock Haven, on the Philada. and Erie railroad. The plan of this Association, it is believed, is different from, and is perhaps an improvement upon any other now in existence. 360 homes, (each consisting of 2 rooms about 8x9feet in blocks 72 feet in length and two stories high, are now ready for occupancy. The houses are water-proof, having good shingle roofs; they have also solid floors, and bunks sufficiently wide to contain two beds. The price at which these homes are rented for ten days is $6,00 if the first floor is desired, and $5,00 if the second is chosen. The location of each renter will be determined by lot, upon a day set for the drawing, so that all will be fairly dealt with.

Boarding houses, abundance of clear cold water, and all the conveniences and comforts that could be desired have been provided. The charges in all cases will be moderate. Boarding for the term $7,50, single meal 50 cts., and $1.00 per day. Bread, meat and vegetables supplied at market rates to those desiring to board themselves.

Excursion tickets will be issued by the various railroads. Free homes are offered to all Methodist ministers and their families who will order them before the day of drawing. The time set for drawing this year is July 26, all orders received before that time will be supplied; those received afterward only if there are homes not rented. If more space should be desired than is contained in the two rooms an additional amount can be had at the same rate, though one person may not order for himself more than four homes, two on each floor.—All that families need to make them comfortable is sufficient bedding—(straw will be provided for their accommodation,) sheeting or muslin for curtains, and whatever else they may desire to bring with them, all of which may be packed in a box or two and will come at but little cost. Address, either for information, or to order homes, West Branch Camp Meeting Association, Lock Haven, Pa.

The Local Paper.—A sensible article is the following from a Chicago journal: "What tells us so readily the standard of a town or city as the appearance of its paper? And its youth or its age can as well be determined by the observing as by a personal notice. The enterprise of its citizens is depicted by its advertisements, their liberality by the looks of the paper. Some papers show a good, solid, healthy foundation, plethoric purses, and a well-to-do appearance generally: others show a striving to contend with the grasping thousands around them, trying hard to wrench an existence from their close fisted communities. An occasional meteoric display in its columns of telegraph or local, or of editorials, shows what it can do if it had the means; but it cannot continue in the expensive work until support comes, which ought to be readily granted. A newspaper is like a church—it wants fostering in the commencement, and for a few years; then, as a general thing, it can walk alone, and reflect credit upon its location. Take your home paper—it gives you more news of immediate interest than any other paper can possibly do; it talks for you when other localities belie you; it stands up for your rights; you always have a champion in your home paper; and those who stand up for you should certainly be well sustained. Your interests are kindred and equal, and you must rise and fall together. Therefore it is your own interest to support your home paper, not grudgingly, but in a liberal spirit; not as a disagreeable duty, but as an investment that will amply pay the expenditure."

Not Difficult to Understand.

A Missouri editor calls upon delinquent subscribers in this harrowing way: "Oh, oh! it's enough to sicken the soul, the heart, gizzard of the stoutest and smutty pulzzed editor's devil. We need money to refit. We are poorer than Job's unfortunate turkey, whose bones rattled a castanet accompaniment when he gobbled. If whole grocery stores were selling for a blue postage stamp apiece, we could not buy an empty mackeral kit! Friend! good friend: Sweet, negligent friend! Don't lay this paper down and think we mean some other individual! It's only three dollars, but a thousand such trifles make $3,000; and that's a big thing for a newspaper, enough to put us firmly on our feet again. Pay up! pay up!"

ADDRESS

TO THE

NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED.

WHOSE SUFFERINGS HAVE BEEN PROTRACTED

FROM HIDDEN CAUSES, AND WHOSE

CASES REQUIRE

PROMPT TREATMENT.

TO RENDER EXISTENCE DESIRABLE

If you are suffering, or have suffered, from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little extra exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Does your liver, or urine organs, or your kidneys, get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky or flocky, or is it ropy on settling? Or does a thick scum rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing of dyspepsia? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling on this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the lustre of your eye as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so, do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you rest less nights? Your back weak, your knees weak, and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver complaint?

Now, reader, self-abuse, venereal diseases badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business men are always those whose organs are in perfect health? You never hear such men complain of being melancholy, of nervousness, of palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they don't become sad and discouraged, they are always polite and pleasant in company of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or any other meanness about them. I do not mean those who keep the organs inflated by running to excess. These will not only ruin their constitution, but those they do business with or for.

How many men, from badly cured diseases, from the effects of self abuse and excesses, have brought about that state of weakness in these organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—idiocy, lunacy, paralysis, spinal affections, suicide, and almost every form of disease humanity is heir to—and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have doctored for all but the right one.

ROSADALIS

THE Great American Health Restorer, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and thousands of our best citizens.

Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information:

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore says:

I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of all alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparke, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of scrofula and secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleaner of the blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreesboro' Tennessee, says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by John Read and S. S. Smith, Huntingdon, Pa., and Druggists generally.

COUGHS, SORE THROAT, ETC.

No medicine or treatment can excel the powerful curative power of

DR. SIMMS'

WHITE PULMONIC BALSAM.

It cures with a rapidity unequalled by any other remedy offered for throat and lung diseases. It is recommended by over 2,000 persons in Wilmington, and hundreds in Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities and communities throughout the country. Mr. Pennington, of Wilmington, Illinois, writes that there is not (with a few exceptions) a family in that city who will be without it if possible to procure it. Such is its popularity wherever it is known—and this popularity arises from the fact that it universally cures all who use it. There is no case of

COUGHS, COLDS, SORE THROAT,
ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, CROUP,

BLOOD SPITTING, HOARSENESS, and even Pulmonary Consumption, where the system is not broken down with the wear of the disease, or pretended medicine, or inexperienced advice, that this Balsam will not cure if carefully used according to directions. We guarantee it all we represent it be, and invite a trial from the afflicted everywhere. Price 50 cts., medium size, and $1 for large size bottles. Prepared only by

MUCK—HOW TO UTILIZE IT.

The time will be, I cannot doubt, when chemists can tell us the exact positive or relative value of a cord of Muck—how this swamp or that pond affords a choice article, while the product of another will hardly pay for digging. There may be chemists whose judgment on these points is now worth far more than mine, since mine is worth exactly nothing. I do know, however, that Muck is a valuable fertilizer, and that digging and composting it does pay. I judge that I have transferred at least three thousand loads of it from my swamp to upland; and the effect has been all that I expected. Let me speak of Muck generally, in the light of my own experience.

Wherever rocks in ridges come to the surface of a valley, plain, or gentle slope, water is apt to be collected or retained by them, forming ponds or shallower pools, which may or may not dry up in Summer, but which are seldom dry late in autumn when plants are dying and leaves are falling. The latter, caught in their descent by the harsh winds of the season, are swept along the bare, dry ground, till they strike the water, which arrest their progress and soon engulfs them. Thus an acre of watery surface will often collect and retain the dead foliage of five to ten acres of forest; and next Fall will render its kindred tribute and the next, and the next, for ever. There cannot be less than fifty millions of acres of Swamps in our old States (including Maine;) whereof I presume the larger area was covered with water until the slow contributions of leaves and weeds filled them above the level at which water is no longer retained on the surface. And still, they are so moist and boggy, and their rank vegetation is so retentive, that the weeds swept in from the adjacent hills and glades are firmly retained and aid to increase the depth of their vegetable mold, which varies from a few inches to twenty and even thirty feet. In my old Country of Westchester, I roughly estimate that there are at least five thousand acres of bog, whereof but a very few hundreds have yet been subdued to the uses of cultivation.

Whoever digs a quantity of Swamp Muck and applies it directly to his fields or garden, will derive little or no immediate benefit therefrom. It is green, sours, cold and more likely to cover his fields thickly and persistently with Sorrel, eye-smart, Rag-weed, Pursley, and other infestations, than to add a bushel per acre to his crop of Grain or roots. And thus many have tried Muck, and, on trial, pronounced it a pestilent humbug.

But let any farmer turn his whole force into a bog or marsh directly after finishing his Summer harvest (when it is apt to be dryest and warmest,) and, having freed it of water to the best of his ability, dig and draw out one hundred cords of its black, oozy substance, and he will know better than to unite in that hasty judgment. If the bog be near his farmyard, let the muck be shoveled at once into a cart and drawn thither; but, if not, let it be simply brought out in wheel-barrows and deposited, not more than two feet deep, on the most convenient bank that is well drained and perfectly dry. Here let it dry and drain till after Fall harvest, and then begin to draw it gradually into the yards, and especially where it may be worked over by swine and scratched over for seeds and insects by fowls. Assuming that the farm-yard is lowest in the center and allows no liquid to escape save by evaporation, the Muck may well be dumped on the dryer sides; thence, after being worked over and trampled through and through, to be shoveled into the center and replaced by fresh arrivals. A hundred cords may thus be so mixed and ripened as to be fit to draw out next May and used as a fertilizer for Grain or Roots, though, if not so treated, it should lie exposed to sun and wind a full year; being applied in the Fall to crops of Winter grain or spread upon the fields to be planted or sowed next Spring. All the manure made during the Winter should be spread over that which lies in the yard at least monthly; and then new Muck drawn in to be rooted or scratched over, trampled into the underlying strata, and overspread in its turn.—Thus treated, I am confident that each hundred cords of Muck will be equal in value to an equal quantity of manure, though it may not give up its fertilizing properties so freely to the first crop that follows its application. I have land that did not yield (in pasture) the equivalent of half a tun of hay per annum when I bought it, that now yields at least three tuns of good hay per annum; and its renovation is mainly due to a free application of Swamp Muck.

To those who have a good stock of animals, with Muck convenient to their yards, I would not recommend any other treatment than the foregoing; but there are many whose Muck-beds lie at the back of their farms, two or three hundred rods from the their barns; while they wish to fertilize the fields in this quarter, which have been slighted in former applications because of the distance over which manure had to be hauled. If these posses or can buy good hard-wood, house-made Ashes at twenty-five cents or less per bushel, I would say, Mix these well, at the rate of two or three bushels to the cord, with your muck as you dig it; work it over the next Spring, and apply it the ensuing Fall, so as to give it a full year to ripen and sweeten, and it will be all right. But, if you have not and cannot get the Ashes and can procure dirty, refuse Salt from some meat-packer or wholesale grocer, apply this as you would have applied the Ashes, but in rather larger quantity; and, if you can get neither Ashes nor Salt, use quick Lime, as fresh and hot from the kiln as you can apply it. The best Lime is that from burned Oyster-Shells; I consider this, if nowise slaked, nearly equal to refuse Salt; but Oyster-Shells Lime is too dear at most inland points; and here the refuse of the kilns—that which is not good enough for mason-work — must be used. Usually, the lime-burner has a load or more of this at the clearing out of every kiln, which he will sell quite cheap if it be taken out of his way at once; and this should be looked for and secured. Being inferior in quality (often because imperfectly burned), it should be applied in larger quantity—not less than four bushels to each cord of Muck.

I will not here describe the process of mixing Salt with Lime commended by Prof. Maples, because it is not easy to bring these two ingredients together so as to mix them with the Muck as it is dug: and, though I have used them after Prof. Maples's recipe, and purpose to do so hereafter, I do not feel certain that any positive advantage results from their blended application as a Chloride of Lime. If I should gain further light on this point before completing this series, I shall not fail to impart it.
